

From Tara Owens - UK College of Arts and Sciences

During the fall and spring semesters, the College of Arts and Sciences offers a variety of information visits and information sessions. The purpose of these visits is for prospective students to learn about each of our majors and the available opportunities in the College. Faculty members, current students, and the recruitment team present information on our academic programs, give overview of the STEMcats and International Village Living Learning Programs, lead tours of one of the residence halls, and offer prospective students opportunity to sit in on a course.

As we have noticed many students from local schools attending these visits, we would like to invite your students or AP class with students interested in these majors to attend on an upcoming Friday. We offer visits for Natural Sciences (Biology, Chemistry, Neuroscience, Physics and Geological Sciences), Psychology, Political Sciences, Pre-Law and Pre-Med/healthcare. If you have a class of students that you feel would benefit from these visits, please contact the College of Arts and Sciences. We would love to coordinate a visit.
