

Discovery:

The Discovery Program is the heart of PHC. The positive social skills it teaches are used in every program Problem Solving, and Conflict Resolution.

Night School and Modified Schedule:

Purpose: To provide students who need four credits or fewer a schedule that fits their work and family needs.

While a modified schedule is designed for students who need four credits or fewer to complete their high school diploma, there may be exceptions to this rule. Acceptance of a student who needs more credits but desires a placement in a modified schedule will be reviewed by a placement committee.

A modified schedule is created around the student's need, available time with the Night School Coordinator, and available Chrome Books. Students on a modified schedule are required to work on Edgenuity for a certain amount of time each day based on the student contract. Community (with the exception of night school). The six essential skills taught through Discovery are: Effective Groups, Emotional Management, Communication Skills, Assertiveness Training,

Phoenix Horizon Community's mission is to provide an alternative setting for students who struggle with traditional school, to provide support and help in next steps after high school, and to provide opportunity for academic success.

Sources of Strength:

Sources of Strength is student led and focuses on cultivating a culture of positivity to prevent youth suicide, eliminate bullying, and curb substance abuse. There are eight areas in our lives where we can find strength: Spirituality, Generosity, Healthy Activities, Mentors, Positive Friends, Family Support, Mental Health, Medical Access.

Daytime PHC:

Purpose: To give students the opportunity for educational enhancement, to deliver highly effective instruction, to supply students with essential skills, and to provide students a daily access to use such skills.

About the Program:

Students and staff use essential skills as taught through our Discovery Program. Class sizes are no larger than 15 students. In place of bells ringing to signify class change, music plays when there is one minute remaining for students to be in their seats and ready for class to begin. Phones, electronic devices, and backpacks are taken when students enter the building for the school day. A portion of the student's day may be spent working on credit recovery. All students receive free breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

Ignition:

Purpose: To give students daily access to mental health care as provided and set by The Ridge.

Scott County Schools and PHC have teamed with The Ridge in Lexington to provide students with a way to receive mental health care each day and still be on the school campus.

The Ignition Program is for students between the ages of 11-18. Mobile assessments are completed prior to a student being admitted in Ignition and The Ridge sets the standards of admittance as well as discharge.

Ignition runs from 8:45-3:45. Students in this program come to PHC, turn in their phones, electronic devices, and backpacks. They get breakfast and meet with the district's social worker for a brief check in time, then report to the Ignition Room to continue their day with a therapist from The Ridge for group therapy sessions. After the group time is complete, students typically check in with the district's social worker again before entering their school schedule as set forth by PHC.

Because this is a mental health program, families should be aware that insurance is billed and copays may be expected.

While a modified schedule is designed for students who need four credits or fewer to complete their high school diploma, there may be exceptions to this rule. Acceptance of a student who needs more credits but desires a placement in a modified schedule will be reviewed by a placement committee.

A modified schedule is created around the student's need, available time with the Night School Coordinator, and available Chrome Books. Students on a modified schedule are required to work on Edgenuity for a certain amount of time each day based on the student contract. Students are also required to come to PHC at least one time per month to check in on progress and upcoming testing requirements. Students will also be expected to come in for end of year tests as required by grade level.

Night School is on Tuesday and Thursday evenings 4PM-6PM. Placement in this program is primarily based on behavior.
